SECOND MRS. TANQUERAY

Any drama that may have secured the popularity of the dramatic since form of entertainment

has been so effective

as the immense audience

that has gathered out to

Miss Verna Felton at the New

Empire theatre, has shown

her popularity in this city and the Allen Players have extended her and the Allen

Players' present masterpieces, "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray" and "The Alien".

The second Mrs. Tanqueray

has been taken with the production and the Allen

Players' performance, which has been inaugurated this week. The company has

FINE SHOW AT PANTAGES

While the appearance of the Pantages Theatre this week certainly is not the first of its kind, it is events in more than one season

that the remainder of the year will be a record for the theatre.

It is not Alexander Pantages who has the reputation of being the man who has a high price headline, but the company which surrounds an expensive feature

with a high price head-line value. For the reason of this company has a program that cannot be exceeded anywhere on the continent and it would not be surprising if a new record

were set with the feature

last Saturday night.

Prominent mention is due

Lola Loree and Helen, a pair of belle. Lola Loree who presented a first that is to follow sudden knockout in one of the most brilliant seasons of her career on a local stage. The

Red Sox Defeat C.N. in Snappy Contest

Sensational Fielding Stunts, Timely Clouting and Fast Base Running Characteristic Ball Battle Between Red Sox and C.N.—Box Won Six to Five after Thrilling Battle

Sensational fielding stunts, clutch catches, timely clouting, close pitching and interesting baserunning characterized the ball contest last night which the Red Sox won out in the fifth by a score of 6 to 5 over the Canadian Nationals. The game was a snappy contest, the distinctive hitting star of the Red Sox being the pitcher, who was the only one to hit a home run. The Red Sox pitcher, who was the only one to hit a home run, was the only one to hit a home run. The Red Sox pitcher, who was the only one to hit a home run, was the only one to hit a home run.

FAVORABLE CROP CONDITIONS ALONG C.N. RAILWAY LINE

WINNIPEG, June 5.—Favorable crop conditions prevail along western lines of the Canadian National railway, according to the weekly report issued here today. Most districts report rain during the past week with crops in excellent shape and prospects good.
In most districts in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, seeding is completed and only a few places report that there is a little barley and flax to be sown.
In Alberta nearly all localities report seeding completed and the wheat is in very fine condition. In many sections of Saskatchewan and Alberta wheat is from seven to ten inches above the ground.

A. R. MOSHER THINKS THAT GOVT SHOULD NAME CHAIRMAN

OTTAWA, June 5.—"It is about sunset that the government of the day, which has power to appoint supreme court judges, is not content to select a chairman for the board of conciliation appointed under the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act," said A. R. Mosher, grand president of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railroad Employees, here today. "The board of conciliation is an appendage to the act proposed. It is not the board of conciliation that where the parties to the dispute are not willing to agree, he may be appointed by the chief justice of the province. It is the present, the chairman, in such a case, is the minister of labor."

For driving his car on the wrong side of the street Hamilton, McCallister was assessed the costs of the case. Sam Slinger and Howard Colby for speeding on the High Level bridge were fine $15 and costs each, and Fred Armitage for speeding of the ordinary variety was cautioned.

Thomas, Cluff, for failing to give right of way to traffic approaching from the right was fined $5 and costs.

James, charged with carrying on an auctioneer's business without a license was assessed costs, while Joseph Lee, having a chauffeur's license was treated leniently.

The Red Plague Hits Canada's Fur Trade

BRITISH COLUMBIA ROAD ENGINEERS TAMED THIS GRUBBY BEAST FEEDING.

(Editor's Note.—This article was compiled by one of the most experienced fur traders all in charge of company posts.)

The finest furs are obtained in the most desolate wooded districts, the most notable exception being the white fox skin of the far northern Harpur Lands and Arctic coast. The depth of coloring and lustre of a pelt increase in direct relation to the degree of forest cover in the locality where they are taken. This is, of course, a matter of food supply which can be had only in the deep forest.

The fur trade returns from the forest cover in the locality where they are taken. This is, of course, a matter of food supply which can be had only in the deep forest. The fur trade returns from the forest cover in the locality where they are taken. This is, of course, a matter of food supply which can be had only in the deep forest.

In any great concentration in the forests, thousands of the most valuable fur-bearing animals are killed to death. These also are killed to death, such as beaver, more frequently escape, but are forced to migrate to better feeding grounds. The fur trade returns from the forest cover in the locality where they are taken. This is, of course, a matter of food supply which can be had only in the deep forest.

MAINTAINING THE LAW

Next week a party will leave Edmonton who before their return will settle the fate of eleven Eskimos now held at the Mounted Police barracks at Herschel Island. The eleven aborigines are accused of murder, and the out-going party includes a judge and lawyers who will hold court in that far off point in the Arctic, determine their guilt and impose punishment if that is found to be deserved. It is a jaunt of twenty-five hundred miles from Edmonton to the island, and first to last giving the accused a British trial will cost the dominion government a huge sum of money. That does not matter. Canada is new and every citizen is entitled to protection, in every corner of it. That is the tradition that has made life on the Canadian frontier safer than it is or ever has been on the fringe of civilization in any other part of the world.

THEY WILL MAKE GOOD

Reports from Red Deer are that the alleged dissipation of the newly arrived Hebridean Islanders was exaggerated, and that the newcomers are adapting themselves to conditions with no more than the normal amount of difficulty experienced by people who find themselves in a strange land and surrounded by unusual circumstances. That they have no real grievances to complain of, that is to be expected. The men who came from that part of the world to the western wilderness half a century ago were not given to disappointment because things were new and different, still less to discouragement. They were, before all else, industrious and thrifty, and as years went on many of these former employees of the great fur trading company became men of substance and standing in the country. Blood tells, and what they did the later comers from the same islands are likely to also do.

SOMETHING ELSE NEEDED

The great lakes shipping combine seems to be about as much afraid of a royal commission as Germany is of the reparations commission. While the special investigation has been probing into the hold-up methods employed by the shipping ring last fall, the ship-owners and brokers have been merrily collecting the same money for carrying what as they did then. One thing is clear. Publicity is a powerful regulator, but it doesn't work in this case. The shipping men are not sensitive. They like freight rates, and being told that they formed a combine and hoisted rates unjustifiably. If the public get any satisfaction out of this information they are none the less as likely as ever to go on imposing the same charges. It is cash they are after, not the plaudits of grateful and appreciative grain growers. If lake freight rates are to be held down to a level that will give the farmer a chance to live that will have to be done by law or competition; exposure does not bring the rate-busters to penitence nor cause them to mend their ways. It is up to parliament.

MAKING A REAL TRY

The allied world has no cause to remember Austria with gratitude. The government of that country directly precipitated the world war which cost the lives of millions of men and plunged humanity into debt and misery. For all that there will be hope that Mr. Zimmerman, who represents the League of Nations in trying to help along the reconstruction of Austria, is not painting the process of recovery in such strong colors. The country, he says, is making wonderful strides toward normal conditions. The people are busy, industry and trade are reviving, and war is disappearing. The national finances are being put in order, regions of needlessness of officials have been dismissed and real economy effected, while taxes are being imposed—and paid—which will in a year or so make the income equal the outgo. It may be recalled that only a year ago Austria deliberately threatened to cease trying to function as an organized state unless it were given assistance in solving the difficulties brought upon it by its misguided rulers, while Austria was worth no more than Soviet rubles. This favorable report, by the way, is presented in hope of encouraging foreigners to subscribe to an international loan, and thus place the debts of the country in such a position that they can be met by the indomitable industry and thrift of its people. In justice it must be said that Austria seems to be the one former enemy state that is making a real effort to pay its debts and re-establish itself in the world, which may account for the willingness of allied governments and financiers to give it a helping hand, despite its responsibility for the

WHAT THE RAINS MEAN IN CASH

Alberta has 5,765,000 acres of wheat in 1922. She will probably have an equal acreage this season. Of that acreage not less than two and a half millions is in the central and northern part of the province, of which Edmonton is the natural trade centre. Last season owing to lack of rainfall the crop was short, possibly not more than ten bushels per acre. That would give a total of 25 million bushels, which at an average price to the farmer of 75 cents meant nearly 19 million dollars.

Lack of rainfall this season would have meant another short crop. The abundant and general rainfall that has occurred at precisely the right time practically insures more than an average crop—say 20 bushels per acre, or double that of last year. On the same acreage as last year and at the same price, that would mean 19 million more money for distribution through the ordinary channels of trade in central and northern Alberta this season than last. Every bushel per acre over the average would mean a million and three quarters more money for distribution; but there is a possibility of the average being nearer 30 than 20 bushels per acre. The rains have made a difference of from twenty to forty million dollars in the prospective returns on only one harvest of farming operations in the territory which centres in Edmonton for trade purposes. Such prospects offer a solid foundation for renewed business enterprise.

TIME FOR ACTION

Rev. Dr. Chown, general superintendent of the Methodist church, suggests that it is time that something were done toward action of that organization with the Presbyterian and Congregational churches, or that the project were dropped. That would seem to be a logical view of the situation. For something like twenty years amalgamation of these denominations has been in the air. Granting that great bodies move slowly, the movement in this case has been comparatively leisurely. If union was to come about it was obviously desirable that it be made with as nearly unanimous consent of the members of all the uniting bodies as possible, and to secure this time was necessary. But a generation has been born and grown to manhood and womanhood since the proposal was actually put under way. The three bodies are not yet united, and it cannot be claimed of late years the sentiment toward union has seemed to be gaining ground rapidly, if at all. The pendulum would seem to be that the present disposition among the memberships is more or less normal. There is little ground to suppose that the favorable sentiment would be numerous five or ten years hence if action were deferred for such period; and therefore reason to think that the question might as well be settled and done with one way or the other.

Primarily it is the exclusive business of the bodies concerned whether they unite or do not unite; and whether they decide now which they will do or postpone the decision indefinitely. These organizations are supported by the free will offerings of their members and adherents, and the outside public can make no tangible claim to a right to offer advice or suggestions. A church cannot, however, take that view of its position in the world. By its professions, its creed, and its traditions, it exists for a purpose other than that of administering its affairs in a way satisfactory to its membership without regard to the public at large. In fact it is the standing claim of such institutions that they aim to propagate their religious teaching among outsiders and to exert a constantly widening influence for good in the community. That claim in itself gives it the right to a serious moral interest in the conduct of relationships and welfare of every church organization. People have a right to expect that churches will be so administered that the most effectively accomplish the purposes for which they exist, and which it is freely admitted to be in the interests of the general welfare that they should accomplish. This western country needs religious bodies which represent something more than creed, names, and chapters in history. They need churches which believe something, preach it aggressively, and contribute the last ounce of their support to every moral issue that has to be fought for. The menace of the age is not infidelity; it is simply nihilism—in any defined direction or fixed system of religious convictions. Infidelity is positive. Non-belief is negative. The 'man on the street' does not stay away from the church because he positively disbelieves; but because he is not actively concerned. The prevalence of that disregard for religion is apparent everywhere. There is a general indifference to religion with others. Yet if everybody in Edmonton wanted to go to church next Sunday they could not all find standing room in the buildings. Probably not half of them could be seated. Yet of the non-attendants the vast majority claim adherence to some church or other when asked. For some reason or other the churches do not 'get the people'—the people who were brought up to attend church and who still profess attachment for one or other organization and who do not in any way challenge the fundamentals of all the creeds. No doubt it is the fault of the individual if he does not go to church. Still, his absence is something the churches cannot afford to forget. Not at all by way of criticism, rather suggestion, may it be asked: Is it not possible that while there has been such concentration of attention on the question of uniting the members of these three great denominations in one body there has been a diversion of attention from the possibility of getting into one body or another those who do not now take any active interest in any? Has the non-church-goer been forgotten in the effort to amalgamate the church-goers? If that be the case it is plainly in the interests of the churches and the public that union be consummated or that the talk of union and the exaltation of union be definitely abandoned.

A COLUMN FOR THE COMMON PEOPLE

Reports to the effect that the author of this column had been in jail for the past week, had declined a position in the veterinary office, or had been attending the conference with the idea of obtaining help or aid, are entirely incorrect. As a matter of fact the circulation manager is so busy, that he has been on his feet for the past week, and the good work will again go forward, irrespective of whether informed and disingenuous subscribers owned their subscriptions or not.

Thanks to the Concert Artists, we are enabled to publish the following information. It does not wear a tag, but it will be useful and unless the owner pay due tax they will be done away with. No wonder that road residents are flocking to the 'C'.

WEDDING PUBLICITY
When I am drifting down the street in a wedding dress, I'm getting lonely. I look more like a bride than a bride.

I look like some poor low paid clerk, or some mechanic out of work. And everybody knows the fact that I am not a clerk or a mechanic.

They think I come to sell them the lot or the seed of the moment. They wonder if I'm selling house, or sewing machine, or anything else.

But when I get it is a marriage. They change things just round about.

I am in them, and can't get out.

BULLETIN Want Ads. Bring Results

The Point of Contact

THERE'S a simple catch in the familiar phrase that tells how the world beats a path to the door of the man who makes a better mouse-trap.

The maker of anything, if he is to win the plaudits of the world, must not only manufacture a superior product, but must also tell folks know of his achievements. He must point out just why his mouse-trap, his automobile or his shaving cream is better than his neighbor's. He must advertise.

Advertising is the point of contact between the man who makes something and the man who wants something. Through an advertisement, a manufacturer can tell you in a few short minutes all you want to know about the article or the service he has to offer.

This newspaper is constantly full of ideas that other men and women have thought out for your personal benefit. Fail to read the advertisements and you remain in ignorance of countless products that would make life easier, happier and more interesting for you and your entire family.

Advertising gives you news of the latest and best things made—with word as to what they will do, what they cost and where to get them. Think of all you miss when you overlook the advertisements.

Read them regularly—every day
